PRODUCT CATEGORIES

POUCHES

A pouch is the most common form of flexible packaging. It is made out of a variety of material structures and replaces the traditional need for cans or tins, boxes, cartons and jars. Pouches can be segmented into two key groups, those that stand up or box pouches and those that don't. Recyclable or traditional materials.

PRINTED REWIND

Ideal for food or beverage manufacturers with larger product volumes that run an automated packaging process. We design, trial, supply and service. Recyclable or traditional materials

STRETCH WRAP

The latest generation stretch films- thinner, lighter yet tougher. They have excellent structure and tearing resistance similar to the likes of a 'plywood effect'. Less film is needed, loads are more secure, costs are managed. Recyclable material, options for recycled content; hand roll or machine rolls.

RECYCLABLE

With national targets, customer demand and the increasing efficiency of recycling programs, you can opt for our recyclable pouches, printed rewind and stretch wrap. This means you can enhance your initiatives to meet industry and environmental targets, while enhancing your brand.
